2.1. Central Eurasian Studies Society (CESS) Fourth Annual Conference, October 2-5, 2003, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, U.S.A.

The Central Eurasian Studies Society (CESS) invites panel and paper proposals for the Fourth CESS Annual Conference, October 2-5, 2003, in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The event will be held at Harvard University, hosted by the Program on Central Asia and the Caucasus at Harvard's Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies. Panel and paper topics relating to all aspects of humanities and social science scholarship on Central Eurasia are welcome. The geographic domain of Central Eurasia extends from the Black Sea and Iranian Plateau to Mongolia and Siberia, including the Caucasus, Crimea, Middle Volga, Afghanistan, Tibet, and Central and Inner Asia.

Submissions of pre-organized panels are strongly encouraged and will be given some preference in the selection process. Individual papers are also welcome and will be assigned by the program committee to an appropriate panel with a chair and discussant. The Conference Committee accepts only electronic submissions -- either by webform or by e-mail form in the case of those who don't have web access. Please contact CEES to receive the e-mail submission forms in MS Word or PDF format (please specify your preference). The following information is required for submissions: For paper presenters: 1) Name, 2) Current institutional affiliation, 3) Title/position, 4) E-mail, 5) Postal address, 6) Telephone, 7) Fax, 8) Title of Paper, 9) Abstract of Paper (a summary of the paper not exceeding 200 words), 10) Any audio-visual equipment requests (specify: overhead projector, slide project, video player), 11) A one-page CV which contains educational background and other information which the panel chair may require for introductions. If you are accepted and participate in the conference, your abstract will be published, so please write it carefully to avoid errors and ensure that it conforms with the criteria for a good abstract (see Guidelines for Writing Abstracts on the conference website). For panels: Proposals may be submitted for regular panels (with presentation of scholarly papers) and roundtables (featuring discussion of a current topic in the field). Regular Panels: In addition to the information for paper presenters (as indicated above), the following are also required: a) a panel title, and b) name, affiliation, and contact information of the panel chair and discussant. Panels should have four or five paper presenters, a chair, and a discussant. The program committee can accept panel submissions which lack up to two of these; the other panel participants will be filled in as necessary. Pre-organized panels should be thematically coherent and may be organized by a scholarly organization (though this is not required). Roundtable Panels: A roundtable has four to six presenters and a chair/moderator. For roundtable proposals, the organizer must provide a paragraph describing the panel objectives and providing justification for use of the roundtable format. The same information is required of each participant as for regular panels with the exception that abstracts are not required.

Best Paper Award: There will be an award in the amount of $500 given to the best graduate student conference paper submitted to the Awards Committee for consideration. See the CESS awards webpage for details

(http://cess.fas.harvard.edu/CESS_Awards.html), or contact the Awards Committee Chair, Prof. Gregory Gleason <gleason@unm.edu>.

Deadline for submission of panel/paper proposals: April 4, 2003.

Notification of acceptance: June 2, 2003.

Pre-registration deadline: September 1, 2003.

Papers should be submitted to chairs/discussants: September 15, 2003

Electronic submissions are strongly encouraged. Submitted papers will go through a blind referring process. The complete papers can be submitted to: Professor Ali M. Kutan, Co-editor Comparative Economic Studies, Economics and Finance Department Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, IL 62026-1102 (akutan@siue.edu)

2.8. Association of American Geographers Annual Meeting "Integrating 'Old' and 'New' Europe: Globalization, Competitiveness, and Transition". 14-19 March, 2004, Philadelphia.

Organisation: RGS-IBG Postsocialist Geographies Research Group and the AAG Russian, Central Eurasian, and East European Specialty Group.

The enlargement of the EU in 2004 promises to complicate further Europe's already multifaceted geographical landscape. For the accession countries of central and eastern Europe, the forthcoming enlargement of the EU is indicative of their 'successful' movement away from the socialist regimes of pre-1989/1991. At the same time, other former socialist countries have been 'slow-tracked' and others still have limited short- to medium-term interest in EU membership for a variety of reasons.

The aim of this call is to bring together scholars interested in addressing the complexities and 'messiness' engendered by the EU accession process within central and eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. Particular emphasis is placed on the following broad sub-themes:

Territoriality and Governance

Society and Culture

Cities and Urban Environments

For those interested in taking part - you should register yourself (with abstract) for the conference on the AAG website (www.aag.org) and then send your Presenter Identification Number (PIN) and abstract to either Tassilo Herrschel

(herrschelt@yahoo.co.uk ; t.a.herrschel@wmin.ac.uk) or Jonathan Oldfield

(J.Oldfield@qmul.ac.uk).

Please forward PINs and abstracts by 30 September 2003.

2.9. BASEES Conference 3-5 April 2004, Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge.

Organisation: British Association For Slavonic And East European Studies (BASEES). The deadline for papers and panels suggestions is October 1, 2003. More information:

(www.basees.org.uk/conf.htm)

2.10. International Conference "WTO, China, and the Asian Economies, II", Beijing (China) June 18-19, 2004.

China and Taiwan were accepted as new members of the WTO in November 2001. Because of the sizes of their economies, their economic relations with other economies, and the extent of trade liberalization to be implemented by their governments, it is expected that there will be enormous impacts on their and other economies.

Economists are invited to submit papers, which provide theoretical analysis or empirical studies of the following issues, for consideration for presentation in the conference:

- effects of China's and Taiwan's accession to the WTO on their own economies and/or other economies, especially other Asian economies;

- trade and investment relations, rivalry, and interdependence between China and other Asian economies;

- trade issues faced by developing countries, with or without relevance to the WTO;

- China and other Asian economies before, during, and after the Asian crisis;

- trade and currency policies of China and other Asian economies WTO and developing countries;

Please submit a draft of your paper (or an extended 500+ word abstract), preferably by e-mail to both Xu and Wong, stating your affiliation, academic rank, mailing and e-mail addresses, and fax and phone numbers by December 31, 2003 to:

- for people in Mainland China: Xu Ermin, Business School, Renmin University of China, 175 Haidian Road, Beijing, China. emxu@public3.bta.net.cn

- for people elsewhere: Kar-yiu Wong, Department of Economics, University of Washington, Seattle, WA 98195-3330, U. S. A. karyiu@u.washington.edu

If a paper is accepted for presentation, a final version is due on April 30, 2004.

While people are encouraged to find their own funding for attending the conferences, subsidies are available to a limited number of participants to cover part of the travel/accommodation expenses. If in need, please send Xu or Wong a note, stating the amount needed and the lowest airfare between your place and Beijing, China. More information:

3. FELLOWSHIPS, COMPETITIONS AND OTHER ISSUES

3.1. Call for papers: British Association For Slavonic And East European Studies (BASEES), 3 - 5 April 2004, Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge.

Abstracts for complete panels and individual papers are invited in all areas of linguistics, language pedagogy and translation studies for the BASEES 2004 conference. This year's conference saw approximately 20 presentations in the field, covering areas including sociolinguistics, dialectology, generative linguistics, instructional technology, and translation. The conference overall had over 200 presenters in a variety of subjects, including history, literature and cultural studies, sociology, economics, and politics. The deadline for abstracts is 1 October 2003. More information: (www.basees.org.uk)

BASEES welcomes participation from UK and non-UK scholars, whether members of academic staff or postgraduate students. We encourage the submission of complete panels (3 speakers, or 2 speakers plus discussant) but do not require it.

All abstracts in linguistics, language teaching and translation studies may be sent directly to the subject organiser, Dr Jan Fellerer (jan.fellerer@wolfson.ox.ac.uk). Any preliminary enquiries in linguistics, language teaching and translation studies about housing, travel, etc. before the abstract deadline of 1 October should be sent to Dr Neil Bermel (n.bermel@sheffield.ac.uk). Participants will be notified of the status of their submission by the end of November. Submissions and enquiries in the other fields represented at the conference should go to the respective subject organiser (see the website for more information). BASEES does not undertake to fund all scholars whose papers are accepted; participants must count on paying their own travel and conference expenses. Some funding is available for postgraduate students at UK universities.

3.2. Feminism, Gender and Women's Movement from 19th to 20th centuries within the six Central European post-Communist countries (Azerbaijan, Kazakstan, Kyrgyzstan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Tajikistan).

In January 2003 L'Homme-Association - located at the Department of History, University of Vienna - started the project "Creating Networks Between East and West. Intensifying scientific communication between Austria and Eastern Europe concerning the field women's and gender studies". The project is directed by Prof. Edith Saurer, who also founded the journal L'Homme. Z.F.G. (Journal for Feminist History) in 1990. One aim was the foundation for a democratic way of dealing with diversity in Europe and for political integration. Beyond established contacts the project would like to stimulate research work and history(ies) about feminism, gender and women's movement within post-Communist countries. The project is interested in:

- the most important paradigms, phases, developments
- concepts, terms, history of feminism and/or gender
- origins of women's movement(s) within the several countries

Participants are requested to send an abstract (500 words) in English or German by the 15th of August. On this basis about 30 authors will be invited to write an article (15 pages/67.500 characters) by the end of November 2003. These papers will be presented at a workshop in Vienna, June 2004 and published in German (as volume of the series L'Homme-Schriftenreihe) in order to make the work and research results more accessible and widely known. More information: Elisabeth Frysak, Margareth Lanzinger, Edith Saurer (project management)

3.3. Czech Journal of Economics and Finance.

Journal FINANCE A UVER (Finance and Credit) focuses on the banking sector and the whole area of financial intermediation, including the capital markets, public finances, tax issues (regularly publishing tax adjudications), monetary economy and monetary policy, corporate finance and corporate restructuring, and coverage of the insurance sector. Reviews of important relevant publications are also provided. Some issues focus on a single topic, e.g., reform of the pension system, public finances, the exchange rate, central bank independence, inflation targeting, economic growth, capital markets, the European Union, ten years of the economic transition in the CR. All major articles are published with an English précis.

FINANCE A UVER is a journal primarily aimed at financial and monetary policymakers, corporate economists, bank and other financial institution personnel (investment companies and funds, pension funds, brokerages), revenue officers, municipal financial officers, financial consultants and university teachers and students. More information:

(<http://www.financeauver.org/>)

3.4. Advanced Training Courses In Science Policy

(ATC) are designed to enable practitioners of science and technology policy in Partner countries to profit from the experience and expertise of their colleagues in NATO countries in policy, organization and administration of science programmes. An ATC has between 30 and 50 participants, and is for a duration of from 3 to 5 days. It involves four to six SPECIALISTS from NATO countries and 30 to 50 TRAINEES from Partner countries. An ATC is not lecture-driven, but is of an intensive interactive nature. In addition to being able to provide a systematic introduction to the field of policy analysis, the Specialists are expert policy advisers and highly qualified analysts who will help Trainees to develop a deeper understanding of the nature of scientific and technological problems and opportunities, specialised methods used to analyse scientific and technological issues and the dynamics of science and technology in relation to national and international institutions and organizations. An ATC can provide the foundation for further training in science communication or for a career in areas such as policy-related or commercial posts involving research funding and administration, regulatory or public interest responsibilities, environmental protection, technology transfer and government service on national and international levels. Science Policy practitioners from Partner countries who wish to participate as Trainees should contact one of the Co-Directors of the meeting, whose contact details are provided.

Special provisions have been agreed for scientists from NATO-member countries Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland, to allow them also to apply for participation and support as Trainees, to take advantage of the training possibilities of the ATCs. (More information: (www.nato.int/science/e/courses.htm))

7. GREY LITERATURE.

In this issue, we continue this section containing information about grey literature (reports, journals and working papers). Grey literature is becoming a relevant tool for research. Up to now it has been very difficult to find a systematic compilation of the principal web sites where this kind of information can be found. The aim of this work is to present the most important grey literature available on the internet, in full text and which is free.

"Information Sources on Transition Economies" (Part 2: Journals)

elaborated by:

José Manuel Barrueco and Cristina García Testal
(University of Valencia, Spain).

2.JOURNALS

Acta Slavica Iaponica (The Slavic Research Center, Hokkaido University)

This journal, which is published annually, is devoted to research on the slavic world, including relations between Russia and Japan. Publication was started in 1983, nevertheless on the web only full text issues since 1997 are available. For back numbers only summaries are available. Articles are distributed in PDF format. Accepted languages are English and Japanese. The institution responsible for the publication is the Slavic Research Center (Hokkaido University, Japan). This research center is the only one in Japan that deals with Slavic studies. With the aim of improving research on Slavic countries promotes the interchange of information between scholars and researchers by organizing research projects, conferences and seminars.

Balance of Payments Statistics Newsletters (Fondo Monetario Internacional)

The Fund's Balance of Payments Statistics Newsletter was initiated in 1993 on the recommendation of the IMF Committee on Balance of Payments Statistics, a group of expert national and international data compilers formed under the auspices of the Fund. The purpose of the Newsletter is to provide information on the work of the Balance of Payments Committee and on statistical developments in balance of payments taking place in particular countries and in international organizations. Its goals are: by disseminating this information, to encourage balance of payments compilers to improve their data, methodologies, and collection systems, and to inform data filers and data users of such efforts. It has been published since 1995 with a frequency of two issues a year. It is available in the IMF web site and articles are made available in PDF format.

Baltic Economies - Bimonthly Review (Bank of Finland – BOFIT)

The Bank of Finland's Institute for Economies in Transition (BOFIT) specialises in high-level research on transition economies and analysis of specific national economies involved in the transition from command to market economy. Economic developments, policy and structural reforms (e.g. financial and public sector) are studied, as well as changes in the operating environment of enterprises. BOFIT has traditionally focused on Russia and the Baltics. A recent area of analysis is the rapidly expanding Chinese economy. Baltic Economies is a journal published bimonthly in English. It is available in full text on the internet since 1999. Focused on the analysis of the Baltic countries economies, rather than a scholarly journal it is a sort bulletin with very up-to-date news, graphics and statistical data.

BOFIT Online. Bank of Finland

BOFIT Online is an electronic journal which is published monthly. It is focused on the description of economic policies and progress achieved in transition economies. Articles are written in English or Finnish. Although it is presented like a journal, in fact its format is closer to a working paper series with just a single paper for each issue. The archive of issues goes back until 1999 and allows to consult the abstract and bibliographic information of each work before downloading.

CDI Russia Weekly (The Center for Defense Information)

The Center for Defense Information is a non-partisan, non-profit organization committed to independent research on the social, economic, environmental, political and military components of global security. Its central aim is to educate the public and inform policymakers about issues of security policy, strategy, operations, weapon systems and defense budgeting. The CDI Russia Weekly is an e-mail newsletter that carries news and analysis on all aspects of today's Russia, including political, economic, social, military, and foreign policy issues. With support from the Carnegie Corporation of New York and the MacArthur Foundation, the CDI Russia Weekly is a project of the Washington-based Center for Defense Information \(CDI\), a nonprofit research and education organization.

Central Europe Review

Central Europe Review (ISSN 1212-8732) was founded in June 1999 by Andrew Stroehlein to offer new perspectives on Central and East European policies, society and culture. It was run by volunteers until its fusion with Transitions Online (see forward) in January 2002. It has a subscription system that allows to receive the summary of each new issue by email. Archives of back issues (1999 and 2000) are organized by months, authors and subjects. It has a section devoted to interviews with relevant researchers in the discipline.

Finance & Development (Fondo Monetario Internacional)

This publication is of great interest for politics, researchers and economists which are interested in the IMF work and in current statistical data. It is addressed to the main public. Its papers show the activities carried out by the institution, the international monetary tendencies and the role played out by the IMF in order to maintain the stability and order in international monetary policy. Finance & Development's print editions are published quarterly in English, Arabic, Chinese, French, and Spanish—and its World Wide Web edition is published quarterly in English, French, and Spanish. The contents of Finance & Development are indexed in Business Periodicals Index, Public Affairs Information Service (PAIS), Bibliographie Internationale des Sciences Sociales, and many other print and online publications. An annual index of articles and reviews is carried in the December issue.

Global Perspectives : A Forum on Business in Transition and Emerging Markets (The Davidson Institute)

Global Perspectives is a new publication of the William Davidson Institute (University of Michigan Business School). Only two items have been issued by the moment. This publication provides a perspective about statistical data related with business that are arising in the emerging markets worldwide. Its main goal is to become an interchange point for researchers on transition economies. Since its foundation in 1992, the Davidson Institute, has carried out training programmes in administration and has promoted the research work. Global Perspectives appears once every three months. It is available in PDF format.

IMF Staff Papers (International Monetary Fund)

The objective of IMF Staff Papers is to publish high quality research produced by IMF staff and invited guests on a variety of topics of interest to a broad audience including academics and policymakers in the member countries of the IMF. The papers selected for publication in the journal are subject to an extensive review process using both internal and external referees. The journal also welcomes outside comments, criticisms, and interesting replications of published work. To facilitate electronic storage and retrieval of bibliographic data, IMF Staff Papers has adopted the subject classification scheme developed by the Journal of Economic Literature. It appears three times a year. On its home page we are able to access the papers full text going back until 1998. Articles are available in PDF format.

Dear members,

enclosed you will the current directory of the Association. We are planning to set up an electronic form this year which will enable us to have an automatic update each year and which could in the future give to the members electronic access to the latest version.

Please be so kind as to fill out the enclosed renewal form or fill out the electronic form for download on my webpage. This will be available in the internet from April 20.

There are some modifications concerning the membership fees and the subscription to the journal. According to our decisions in Forli the flat membership fee will include the electronic access to the journal Economic Systems. This is definitively an improvement, because the membership fees have not been increased and this will guarantee immediate access to the issues of the journal as soon as it appears. Those who wish to obtain a hard copy will have to pay ten Euro more.

You may ask why we did not send out the renewal letter earlier. The reason was that I wanted to make sure that up to this moment the complete volume of 2002 has been send out by Elsevier. If there should be anyone who has not received his copies he had ordered please let me know. I will then immediately talk with Valerie Teng and Mieke Ewing who are reponsible for the distribution of the journal.

Please note also when you make not use of the credit card payment, that our bank affiliation has changed to Kreissparkasse Freiberg (Bank Account No. 311 50 20 626, German Bank Code 87052000) which is donating the bank fees charged to the EACES. When using the transfer via the bank make sure that your name will be mentioned. Unfortunately the newsletter No. 28 contained misleading information.

With best wishes for a productive spring and summer

Horst Brezinski
